The Pamplin Community cannery is doing a good business. Corn, which is plentiful, is the main vegetable canned.

Again, Mrs. Hallie Singleton, of Burlington Heights, carried off the banner. On Friday, she put up 117 cans of corn. She arrived at 8:00 A. M., and the cans came from the steamer at 1:15 P. M. Also, credit goes to her husband, who came a-long and helped.

Town Hopes For Another Water Source

It appears fairly certain that Appomattox is going to meet with success in drilling a fifth well to add to its water supply. A fifth well currently is being drilled on the Morris Subdivision in the southside area of the town. The drills started to hit rock fairly near the surface, over 80 feet deep and it is likely that a good flow of water will be accepted at from 120 to 150 feet.

The new well, when completed, will be cased in, cemented in, and adequately protected from surface inflow. A motor structure will be built to house the motor to pump water into the town's main supply lines. SState Health Department inspection is required before a new water supply can be added to the reservoir tanks. There is every reason to believe that Appomattox's newest well will meet all qualifications, both as to volume of output and health sandards.

Miss Stevens To Leave

... Miss Joanne Stevens

Miss Joanne Stevens has resigned as director of music and education at the local Liberty Baptist Church, and has accepted a position as Director of Religious Education at the First Baptist Church, Alexandria, Va.

Miss Stevens will leave here at of Sept. 1, and will begin her new duties in Alexandria Sept. 11.

She came to Appomattox in July of 1960, and has had a most successful record for outstanding work and leadership at Liberty Church. In addition to her work at Liberty, she has been most active in the activities of the Appomattox Baptist Association. Her many friends here regret to see her leave Appomattox, but wish her continued success as she assumes new duties in Alexandria.

TOBACCO PRICES GOOD ON SOUTHERN MARKETS

Flue-cured tobacco growers in the Deep South are finding the newly opened marketing season a profitable one. The first full week of sales in Georgia brought forth a fine average of slightly better than $61.00 per hundredweight. This was about a dollar above the opening week last year.

Flue-cured tobacco markets opened Monday in the South Carolina - North Carolina Border Belt, for a full week of auctions. In two days only last week, the prices ran up an average of $63.09. This compared with the $57.99 average for the same two days last year.

Appomattox County has a number of flue-cured tobacco growers, who will have to wait a few weeks for the opening of their warehouses. The Appomattox crop, mostly in Southside, seems to be in good shape.

May Change Allotment

Legislation now resulting from Congressional action, if approved by a two-thirds vote in a farmer referendum, would cut the Virginia wheat acreage for 1962 by 10 per cent. A total of 24,500 acres of wheat would be eliminated in the crop harvested in 1962. An immediate referendum is planned.

LOCAL SOUTHERN STATES DEALER AT MEETING

W. Twyman Coleman, of Appomattox Va. is now fully qualified to enter dairymen in the Southern States Cooperative's Maxium Profit Dairy Program featuring the "Covculator."

Coleman, a representative of Coleman's Feed & Seed Store, has just returned from a dairy agency school for Southern States personal held Thursday Aug. 3 at Roanoke, Va.

Featured at the session was the new Southern States Maxium Profit Dairy Program which has recently been inaugurated. The program is built around an electronic computer, called the covculator, which shows the rate at which a dairyman should feed his herd to get the most profit.

The "Covculator", an alogue computer uses proven formulas to provide accurate information on amount of concentrate or grain that can be fed to individual cows for greatest profit, based on the selling price of milk and cost of concentrate. It was designed and built by Dr. C. D. Caskey, director of feed research for Southern States Cooperative. The computer places greater emphasis on the economic factors in dairy feeding.

Southern States Cooperative retail agencies in a five-state area will participate in this service type program. Southern States serves farmers in Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, Kentucky and West Va.

Paris favors fit and retains short skirts.

May-Four Lane Route 460

Increasing interest is being manifest in efforts to have the State press forward for great improvement in Route 460, the principal east - west highway through Appomattox.

The renewed interest follows a final decision to locate the planned new east-west Interstate Highway on "the northern route" through Charlottesville. Work on that highway will begin soon. Federal funds will be a major factor in financing this new route.

Attempts had been made to have Interstate Route 64 pass through Farmville, Appomattox, Lynchburg and Roanoke.

Having lost that decision, backers of the "Southern route" now are pressing for improvement of Route 460.

It appears that there is a fair chance that the present dual highway which extends eastward from Lynchburg to near Concord, runs all the way to Appomattox, as an ... by step in ... ding up all of the 460 route.

Also slated for work in this area is a modern bridge across James River at Bent Creek, on US 60.

The plans for improving the Southern Route" involve both existing routes 460, and 360. Three highway districts are involved: Salem, Lynchburg and Richmond. Projected are four-laning 460 from Lynchburg all the way to Appomattox, an expressway by-pass around Bedford, and four-laning 460 in Roanoke County.

It is understood that funds for these projects might become available in the 1962-63 fiscal year. This means that work would not be likely to start before late 1962.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

The Appomattox School Board met this week in the office of Division Superintendent J. A. Burke, to ... up final plans for the opening of the 1961 - 1962 session of the schools, now only about three weeks away. A major item was the approval of teacher assignments, and a teacher list published in this issue.

Maintenance of the school plants has been taken care of, and the school buildings will be in shape for the opening. School buses have been checked and readied for use again this session. Every item of maintenance has to be scheduled for the target date of school opening.

One of the fine items this summer has been the improvement and resurfacing of the school bus entries into school grounds. All three schools have had the entries resurfaced. Equal maintenance has been distributed throughout the county.

Old Landmark Dwelling Here Is Now Being Razed

One of the historic landmarks of Appomattox is being razed, to make way for a new auto lot. The property involved is at the corner of Church and Union Streets, just south of the railroad tracks.

Back in 1898, one of Appomattox's most farsighted citizens, the late T. A. Smith, erected a handsome dwelling on this site. Additions were made from time to time and on occasions the property was used as a "boarding house." Mr. Smith's store was just across the railroad.

During his ownership, the former law office of Mr. Charles Henry Sackett, was moved from old Appomattox C. H., and set up, and improved, as a cottage, beside the main dwelling.

Mr. T. A. Smith passed away in 1914, after a most successful business career in Appomattox.

In 1917, the property was acquired by Mrs. John T. (Rosa) Hundley. It was used as a residence, and as a "boarding house." Later, the property was sold to Dr. W.L. Ould.

Chas. T. Moses, Jr. is the present owner, and is now having this old and historic residence razed, and in about 60 days, a modern new car lot will be ready for the public.
